which we have to support with our taxes the same as you. You claim we are not intelligent enough to yote. It is true it has only been a few years since we were admitted to college, but we are become in enough to yote. It is true it has only then a few years since we were admitted to college, but we are become in ending educated very faat. We are turning out one-the or the graduates there are more boys of school age than there are girls, and if we are not permitted to vote in the next fifteen or twenty years this country will be ruled by the lillierate class instead of the latelligent. You claim if you go out and make the money you exercise more brains han we that stay in the homes. A man can go out and make a horse trade and he will go home and tell his wife he made $25.00. The man he traded with will tell his wife he made $25.00 both these intelligent men made $25.00 both these intelligent men made $25.00 both these intelligent men faced with which is trequires brains to cook three meals a day three hundred and sixty-five days in a year? Don't you think it requires brains to keep house, to do laundrying, to be a seamstress and to do the many things it takes torun a home? Don't you think it requires brains to rear children? I have heard many mothers are the search of the search of the search problems of their lives how to bring their lows and girls.

It was the mother who taught you their fast works and search and the first works and search and the first works one of the greatest problems of their lives how to bring their lows and girls.

With The Readers of This Paper.

In Louisville, Ky., there is a store by the name of J. Bacon & Sons. This store has been Sister. & Sons. & Sons. This store in operation for the past sixtyin operation for the past sixty-six years and is probably the most widely known store in Kentucky today. In this store it is possible to buy everything you need, whether the need be personal or for the home.

This store being affiliated with the largest retail buying organization in the world, which is always ready with instant cash to pay for our pur-chases, and thereby take advantage of every discount, it can readily be seen that you can buy at this store for a great deal less than you are accustomed to paying

And in order to put the readers of this paper on the same basis as a home customer, J.
Bacon & Sons will rebate 5 per cent. of your total purchases up to the amount of your railroad fare. Hence your

LOCAL BANK

INCAL BANK
IN GOOD CONDITION.

There is no business institution or the contemprise in Jeffersontown of which we are more proud than the Jefferson Son County Bank, and it gives The Jeffersonian great pleasure to call water to the splendid condition.

On September 39 the cashier issued an statement showing the condition of the bank at that time. The total resources amounted to 2805, 1445. This is a fine showing for a bank located in the county with other banks all around it.

The Jefferson County Bank was reactly examined by one of the state bank examines, who, after going we carefully over the books and accounts, said to the officers of the bank: "you have a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is bank: "you have a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is bank: "you have a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is bank: "you have a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is bank; "you have a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is bank; "you have a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is bank; "you have a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is bank; "you have a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is bank; "you have a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is bank; "you have a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is bank; "you have a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is bank; "you have a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is bank; "you have a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is bank; "you have a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is bank; "you have a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is bank; "you have a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is a splendid institution here and I am glad-to find it is a splendid institution great credit for the success of thi institution. They are thoroughly acquainted with every detail of the work, and being coorteons to al alike they attract patronage from all classes of people. Interest in paid on time deposits, and small at well as large deposits are desired It is the aim of the officers to have: It is the aim of the officers to nave a bank in Jeffersontown second to none in the state, and we are pleased to note that the citizens of this section are giving their support in such a a substantial manner.

Added to Cedar Creek Baptist Church As

Result of Revival Meeting.

The Rev. George F. Barton, pastor of Cedar Creek Biptist church, assisted by rev. Hickerson, of Lebanon Junction, has just closed a meeting of three weeks' duration with his church. Good congregations and a manifestation of much interest were had during the entire meeting. The meeting closed Thursday when twenty-five converts were bapticed by the Converts were bas Hev. Mr. Barton in the historic war-ters of Ployd's Fork. The baptising took place just below the bridge on the Bardstown pike and was at once one of great solemnity and beauty. The large audience gathered on the amphitheatre-like slopes, forming an impossing setting to the beautiful and solemn moving picture in midstream, where the young minister in twenty-one minutes baptized the twenty-five believers into his church. Eight others were received by letter and relation.

OUR SACRED DEAD.

Closed are the bright; bright; Pale hands lie folded, their labors are ende And still lips have spoken their last fonceod night,

And still lips have see good-night, good-night.
Low we bend over them, gently and tenderly. Telling our love as so sadly we weep;
But never a whisper comes back to gladded that dark night of sorrow, so soundly the

DEAR OLD KENTUCKY.

Have we forgotten the by-gone days, When Puritans wandered along stony high ways? Came here to find a house of peace and red And worship God the way they thought best.

when we bilgrims obey God's wi With the stars and stripes in to might. We ought calmiy hold our own. And give the praise and the right. To God alone. Forever let our banner fly in triumph to the sky. And in his name the victory gain. Sweet Liberty and why.

We trust in God-the Father love

We trust in God and trust we must, Because it is our duty; For weknow we are living in the land And the state of grace and beauty.

Where the lovely blue grass grows And the rispling water flows, And the rispling water flows, And the rispling water flows, And the people try to do their duty With its horses fast and flue And we will always keep in mind. It's the place you will find the fair A can Beauties.

Has Several Things "Up Her Sleeve," But Gives Out Much Information For Our Readers.

St. Matthews, Oct. 23.—It seems that the old land mark residences are all leaving us by fire. Last week there were two at Middledown and one at St. Matthews. The old Fired place burned unaccountably, destroying the building and its contents. Mrs. Lydla Dorsey has returned to her son, R. O. Dorsey, after an extended visit to her children in Chicago and other notable places.

Intervals automobile Lise.

There are a number of inquiries in a sit, joking way asking "are you still rejoicing over the automobile?" Certainly, we are. Have not our prayers been asceading yearly for a Car line, a stage coach or even a wheelbarrow that would take folks to Louisville? But not in our wildest algitmares did we dream of an automobile. It assuredly puts us house-keepers on our metal to battle with the breakfast and dishes, etc., and or ready at 7.a. Then lit's a more the breakfast and dishes, etc., and be ready at 7a. m. Then it's a more wonderful achievement to accomplish even haif of our shopping for the return trip at 2 p. m., which pleases our "bosses" exactly. Nevertheless, it is a great comfort, making us feel like rich folks. I have lived much a Cindealls. lite. such a Cinderella lite every way (ex-cept the little feet) that I am in daily terror lest it turn to a pumpkin.

Eight-Mile Place.

Eight-Mile Place.

A delegation of twenty persons from Springdale attended the service at Eight-mile Baptist church. Several of us had never been there and on inquiring its location and why such a matic, was told it was eight miles high, eight miles wide and that it was eight miles from the service of the alphabet are silent letters. There was a strong, carnest sermon by the Rev. Clarke on "The work of our hands," which impressed all present.

Silly "Frying Size."

Why will our little "Trying size" insist upon congregating just outside the church door to giggle and squeal and act silly? Nothing so surely proclaims them at the "half-way station" as this conduct. "Elevating a Husband."

"Elevating a Husband.

Louis Mann, the well-known character comedian, will present his latest successful play, "Elevating a Husband," at Macauley's Theatre, Louisville, all next week, beginning Monday night. The play is by Clara Lipman and Samuel Shipman. Miss Lipman is Mrs. Mann in private life and has won distinction both as playwright and as an actress. One of her notable plays is "Julie Bono," in which she and Mr. Mann jointly starred. The theme of that play was temperamently French. "Elevating a Husband" is an American story, with its secenes laid in New York. In many of his successes, notably "The Man Who Stood Still" and "The Cheater," Mr. Mann utilized notably "The Man Who Stood Still" and "The Cheater," Mr. Man utilized a German dialect, of which he is a master. In his new play he eliminates the pronounced dialect and gives an entirely new characterization. The role he plays is that of a young New Yorker, with no conception of the worth of books or paintings beyond their counter value, but gifted with a keen business accument that makes him successful in trade, who marries a young woman of culture and social ambittions.

One of these men, to my own persons at knowledge, has voted in all has made one law I would like especially to call your attention to. We were taking a vote in our county district as to whether we should have whisky or not. This idiot was told to go and vote for whisky. The clerk of the polls, knowing it was a very close election and that the idiot would probably repeat the last words he said, reversed the question and asked him if he was for or against whisky. He said, "I am agin 'er." That election was carried by one vote. The idiot's vot decidenthe question. Now, if we are to be classed with the idiots I ask you to extend to use the Si5.00 a years' ear or entitled to Young man, what did you do to you now the same in the same privilege you do to them.
